Morgan,

congratulations with this result. I think these are seedlings you grown by yourself from seed ? It seems like the plant is not big for its first flower (that will come from the father, isn't it ?). And as I can see, there are more of this plants standing there, that means we can perhaps expect more of this.

Bye,

Marc

Hallo moran

Die BEX 231 Lilian Harvey ist ein super vererber von guten Hybriden. Sie stellt die Bex 104 weit in den schatten.

Thank you Marc and Jurgen for your reply!

Yes, I've sown these from seed. I've got more plants (I haven't counted them but) 2 more of them have buds, I'll update this thread when I have new flowers (all plants look big and robust).

According to Ingo Lilian Harvey has only 10 cm flowers. Ingo wrote on my Echinopsis Gallery that Lilian Harvey has many lobivias inside and looks a bit like Schicks Icon.

This plant has such a robust flower that I've never seen anything like it. It has a very strong tube (like Wessners 397 x 333, I think it was) but shorter.

I've dusted it with pollen from Liske's Prachtstuck.

It's MOTHER is Lilian Harvey.

It's FATHER is Werner von Heisenberg.

Did I write the crossing partners in right or wrong order? (Mother X Father)?

I'm also sorry about the wrong link (I didn't make the link absolute), here's a proper one:
